

REMEMBER THAT TIME

I think it was back in '82
On a cold winter's day
We were 17 back then
Young energy - looking for adventure

I remember that time
Much to your surprise
I came into your uni class
I remember that time
We then headed north - to Loch Lomond shores
We were then in wonderment
At that stunning - mirrored water front

The mountains were covered in snow
The sky a deep blue cloudless one
Crisp cold air to breath in Nature was putting on her show

I remember that time
When we headed north - to Loch Lomond shores
I remember that time
At that stunning - mirrored water front

A single day back in 82
A memory of a day spent differently
Nature's show felt just for us
Blue Sky and snowy mountains and a mirrored water front
That Crisp cold air we breathed in
This is why we still remember that time
